

MR. TOWNSEND STIRRED UP.

INDIGNANT AT A NEWSPAPER'S CHARGES.
THE DISS DEBAR TRIAL INTERRUPTED—AN INVESTIGATION PROMISED.

An unpleasant element was brought into the Diss Debar trial yesterday, which will also certainly result in another criminal prosecution. A newspaper in its account of Wednesday's proceedings had made much of the fact that John D. Townsend, the able senior counsel for the prosecution, and James W. Randolph, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, had left the court-room simultaneously, though by different doors, after a mutual "glance of intelligence." Randolph was called for by the Assistant District-Attorney shortly after this, and did not reply, having left the building.

The newspaper in question broadly hinted that Mr. Townsend was responsible for the witness's flight. Mr. Townsend, with natural resentment, called Judge Gildersleeve's attention to the article as soon as court opened. The Judge read it, and at the close of the forenoon session he conducted an informal examination into the affair.

As the result, when the case was resumed after recess, he stated that the matter was one of which it was clearly the duty of the Court to take cognizance. He referred to Mr. Townsend's high standing as a lawyer and a gentleman, and said that if there had been sufficient evidence to justify any such inference as was made, it would have been the duty of the Court to call the attention of the General Term to it. As it was, however, he entirely exonerated Mr. Townsend. "I think," he went on, "that the insinuation is an unwarrantable reflection on the professional conduct of one of the most esteemed and reputable members of the bar. The investigation presents another feature, on which I must say a word. Mr. Randolph states that before he left the court-room a slip of paper was handed him containing the words: 'Leave room quick. Get thousand dollars. North door.' He does not think he could identify the person who gave him the note. I shall hand it to the prosecuting officers that represent the District-Attorney's office, and ask them to give the matter an investigation. If they are able to find the person who handed this communication to the witness, he would be guilty of a misdemeanor under the Penal Code, and if the District-Attorney, through the assistance of the detective force, should discover the person, it shall be brought to the attention of the Grand Jury."

Mr. Townsend and ex-Senator Board both thanked the Court, and Assistant District-Attorney Davis promised a thorough investigation.

The day was one of interesting developments for the prosecution, which presented much testimony which was new. To put it briefly, Kate Sandbury, the actress, testified that Madame Diss Debar once tried to engage her to be the "spirit" in her materialistic services; Mrs. Jennie Higgins knew Ann O'Della at the house of her mother, Mrs. Solomon, in Brooklyn; J. W. Randolph recalled his experiences with the "Madame" at No. 166 Madison-ave., and was ridiculed by the latter. Mr. Townsend poured into him at cross-examination, Isaac Buchanan, a florist, of No. 407 Fifth-ave., was a friend of Lohr Mott, who, in fact, was buried from his house, and did not know of her having any daughter; Susan P. Vance knew Ann O'Della when she was a child in arms, and George C. T. Solomon, her brother, told of the checkered career his sister had led up to its recent culmination in her arrest and indictment.

THE DAY WAS ONE OF INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS FOR THE PROSECUTION, WHICH PRESENTED MUCH TESTIMONY WHICH WAS NEW. TO PUT IT BRIEFLY, KATE SANDBURY, THE ACTRESS, TESTIFIED THAT MADAME DISS DEBAR ONCE TRIED TO ENGAGE HER TO BE THE "SPIRIT" IN HER MATERIALISTIC SERVICES; MRS. JENNIE HIGGINS KNEW ANN O'DELLA AT THE HOUSE OF HER MOTHER, MRS. SOLOMON, IN BROOKLYN; J. W. RANDOLPH RECALLED HIS EXPERIENCES WITH THE "MADAME" AT NO. 166 MADISON-AVE., AND WAS RIDICULED BY THE LATTER. MR. TOWNSEND POURED INTO HIM AT CROSS-EXAMINATION, ISAAC BUCHANAN, A FLORIST, OF NO. 407 FIFTH-AVE., WAS A FRIEND OF LOHR MOTT, WHO, IN FACT, WAS BURIED FROM HIS HOUSE, AND DID NOT KNOW OF HER HAVING ANY DAUGHTER; SUSAN P. VANCE KNEW ANN O'DELLA WHEN SHE WAS A CHILD IN ARMS, AND GEORGE C. T. SOLOMON, HER BROTHER, TOLD OF THE CHECKERED CAREER HIS SISTER HAD LED UP TO ITS RECENT CULMINATION IN HER ARREST AND INDICTMENT.

NEW-YORK CITY.

Theodore Dencher, employed by A. Kleeman, a market gardener, pleaded guilty yesterday in the General Sessions to taking revenge on his employer for discharging him by setting fire to a fence and the covering of a hot-house. Judge Martine sentenced him to one year and seven months in the State Prison.

The new managers of the Cotton Exchange held their first meeting yesterday and appointed several committees.

The Rev. Dr. William N. Dunnell, the rector of All Saints' Protestant Episcopal Church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Rutgers Female College in St. Thomas's church, at Fifth-ave. and Fifty-third-st., at 4 p. m. Sunday.

There was a glut of Delaware and Maryland strawberries in market yesterday. Stock in prime condition sold wholesale at 4 to 8 cents per quart. They are likely to sell low from this onward as New-Jersey are due.

California made a fine display of fruit yesterday. Dudes, Clapp & Doe, of West Washington Market, received 200 cases black and red cherries, and cherry or goose plums, 250 cases apricots and 180 cases peaches. The white cherries were among the finest ever seen here in quantity.

The June arrival of fresh machaeler are not plentiful. They are worth 15 and 20 cents each, or 10 cents per pound. Whole salmon down to 25 cents a pound, cuts 30 cents. Connecticut River shad are now a feature of the fish-stands. Some buyers await the arrival of them on account of traditional eccentricities. Burks are worth 30 cents and roe 60 cents.

George Connolly, age five, was run over near his home, No. 418 East Sixty-fourth-st., and seriously injured yesterday. The wagon was driven by Peter Hart, of No. 303 East Eighty-fourth-st.
